City may alter leaf program

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

While the city has been warned by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for possible violations in its free yard waste dropoff program, the administration is determined to continue the service. "We are looking into a myriad of different approaches at this point," Public Works Director Brett Hanke said. "It is certainly not a dead issue."

The objective of the administration is to continue to provide the service. The city received a telephone warning in May, and a formal administrative warning notice June 12. Both stated that a resident had complained about one of the program sites, at the intersection of Braden Avenue and Pontoon Road, and that an investigation revealed that the facility may violate the Illinois

Environmental Protection Act.

That dropoff site has subsequently been closed down, but the remaining nine facilities also may fall short of EPA requirements.

The warning notice said the city may have violated such regulations as causing or allowing litter, causing or allowing the development and/or operation of a solid waste management site without a permit issued by the EPA, causing or allowing the open dumping of any waste, and conducting a waste disposal operation without a permit granted by the agency. But Hanke said the notice is "not a big deal" and that there are a number of options available to the city to either comply (See LEAVES, Page 12A)

Garrett questions county hiring policy

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A Madison County Board member voiced concerns Wednesday that the county could face racial discrimination charges and potential litigation because it is allegedly slighting black job applicants.

"I'm concerned that the (personnel) committee opens the county to blatant charges of discrimination and lawsuits," said Don Garrett, D-Madison. Garrett said the county's personnel committee "is incapable of considering black applicants." His comments came after a candidate not on a list of interviewees was hired to fill a license investigator position over a black candidate referred to the job by Garrett.

Garrett was the sole member voting against the hiring of Gregory Laub, the son of board member Frank Laub, D-Granite City, to fill the position opened by a retirement. Frank Dutko, D-Madison, who chairs the personnel committee, was not at Wednesday's meeting. Herschel Beane, R-Godfrey, (See BIAS, Page 12A)

County Board OKs funds for Lanter relocation

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Two area businesses received financial backing through resolutions passed Wednesday by the Madison County Board. The board approved an advance to Granite City of $240,000 in community development funding.

According to the resolution, the city is seeking the funding to help Lanter Companies relocate to Northgate Industrial Park, Illinois Route 3, where it would have both offices and a warehouse. The city already had $60,000 to contribute to the project and will have $60,000 subtracted from its community development monies in each of the next four years.

The project promises to retain 34 existing jobs while creating 32 more.

The board also approved an economic development loan to University Partners to help with the purchase and renovation of the Knights Inn on Illinois 157 in Edwardsville.

The loan will keep 22 existing jobs while helping to create an additional 34 jobs. Two board members, Harold Byers, D-Highland, and Richard Worthen, D-Alton, voted against both the Edwardsville loan and the Granite City advance.

"We shouldn't be paying the freight for these big companies," Byers said. "We need to spread that money around to those who really need it. We have poor, homeless residents and small-business men that are struggling on their own. We aren't doing them any favors."

Don Garrett, D-Madison, disagreed with the advance to Granite City but voted in its favor anyway. "These additional jobs are just pie in the sky," Garrett said. "What it does is takes jobs from Venice and moves them to Granite City."

Homer Henke, R-Moro, said the purpose was to keep the jobs in Madison County. Henke said that, without the funding, the company could have opted to move its operations out of the county entirely.

"The whole operation could have been lost to Madison County and nobody really knows to where," Henke said, citing several other states and even Mexico as possibilities.

Police Chief Don Knight and his son, Craig, in the chief's office.

Father, son are a police team

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Like father, like son. It is a cliché. But it is also a strikingly appropriate description of Granite City Police Chief Don Knight and his son, Craig, the most recent addition to the department. Don worked at Granite City Steel from 1961 until 1970, when he took a cut in pay to join the police department. Don was 52 last year when Craig, now 29, gave up a better-paying position as an aircraft mechanic at McDonnell Douglas to become the newest member of the force.

With 22 years of service, Don is beginning to think of retirement — although he says he will "stick around until (Mayor) Von Dee (Cruse) fires me."

He is now taking flying lessons and is ready to get a pilot's license. Both father and son are cops through and through. (See TEAM, Page 12A)

Firefighter's charge disputed

2nd house was already on fire, captain says

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Capt. Ron Ashby and other Granite City firemen say they are angry about another firefighter's statement that one of two fires on Lee Avenue early Wednesday morning could have been avoided.

"That is pure, unadulterated bull," Ashby said. "That second house was on fire when we pulled up to the scene."

"Were there flames leaping out? No. It wasn't visible, but the siding had been melted and a cedar shake shingle under the asphalt roof had ignited from radiant heat."

Ashby's comments are in response to an article in Thursday's Press-Record in which a firefighter on the scene is quoted as saying a fire at 2144-46 Lee Ave. could have been avoided by more manpower on the department.

"I'm not saying manpower wasn't a significant factor contributing to the loss of the building," Ashby, who was overcome by heat and smoke fighting the blaze and was taken to the hospital, said.

But the fact is, both houses were going when we got there. I gave orders to protect the exposures (exposed areas of the home), and we thought we had (the fire at 2144-46 Lee) out.

The fire, which destroyed the homes at 2140-42 and 2144-46 Lee, started at about 12:45 a.m. and was caused by a faulty gas-powered electrical generator.

Salvation Army is continuing drive

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The Granite City Salvation Army's campaign to replace $55,000 it won't receive from the Tri-Cities Area United Way has raised about $3,000, according to Capt. Curtiss Hartley, Granite City commander.

Hartley said the funds have been withheld, but Dennis Orsey, a member of the local United Way board, said the Salvation Army refused to accept United Way funds after the board, in March, cut the original $55,000 allotment to $22,550.

Orsey said the decision to cut the allotment was made because the Salvation Army could not verify that the funds were being spent on direct financial assistance.

In May, the Salvation Army began its own campaign to replace the United Way funds. According to Orsey, the campaign is in violation of the United Way rules governing fund raising by its members.

"The public has come through with evidence that the support is out there," Hartley said. "We are encouraged by the response we have gotten and we just want our contributors to know how thankful we are to them."

Hartley said the Salvation Army has not yet had to cut any of its basic services, but "before, when another agency would call about someone needing $300 for rent or something, we'd all agree to chip in $50 each. Now, we have to tell them we're not in a position to help out."

"But, so far, our basic services — the food pantry, lodging, medical prescriptions — are intact."

"We do, however, have bills stacking up for our own utilities, telephones, things like that. But, so far, we haven't had to think about shutting down any of our services."

Hartley said the Salvation (See DRIVE, Page 12A)

New law raises speeding fine to $75

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Illinois speeders and other minor traffic violators will have to pay 50 percent more in fines if found guilty of their charges under a new law which goes into effect July 1.

The Illinois Supreme Court approved increases in traffic fines June 12, including $75 bail instead of the current $30 fee.

The new fees will benefit local police departments because they will get more revenue from each ticket written. However, it is just that bonus that angered one Supreme Court judge.

Justice James D. Heiple, who opposed the increase, said bail which originally was created to ensure that a person appeared for court now has become a "tax on the motorist."

"Any bail figure, to the extent it exceeds the amount necessary to ensure the presence of the defendant in court, is a misuse and abuse of the bail process," Heiple said.

"The bail figure is being pegged to cover fines and court costs and is geared high enough to produce substantial revenue but low enough to make it uneconomic for a person to hire a lawyer or spend a day at the courthouse contesting a ticket," he added.

The increase is even more intolerable, Heiple said, because the Supreme Court can make the change without having any public input or participation.

"A 50 percent increase in the state income tax, the state sales tax or the real estate tax would be inconceivable," he added.

Other bail fees that will increase July 1 are those for:

- Speeding more than 20 miles per hour over the posted limit, from $70 to $85.
- Speeding more than 30 miles per hour over the posted limit, from $100 to $105.
- Unlawful use of a license, from $300 to $750.
- Conservation offenses that usually require $50 cash bail will require $75.

Costello challenger campaigns in area

By Ken Bourne
Staff writer

Michael Starr, Republican candidate for Illinois' newly formed 12th District U.S. Congressional seat, said the country's anti-increment and "call for change" mood could put him in the House of Representatives instead of his opponent, Democratic incumbent Jerry Costello.

Speaking in Metro East, Starr cited the popularity of independent presidential candidate Ross Perot as a sign that people are sick of the status quo.

"People who judge Perot's popularity as a fad are misjudging the issue," Starr said.

"American people truly want change and he represents that change. I think that idea of change will be a major factor in this election for Congress."

"People who are going to vote for Perot won't vote for any incumbent congressman," Starr said Wednesday before a speech to the St. Clair County GOP convention.

Starr, 51, a native of St. Paul, Minn., and currently an associate professor in the radio-television department at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, said change is what he is about and what the people want.

"The idea behind 1992 is the fact that we the people are the owners of this country and we're not happy. There is a massive demand for change in management."

"For the last 38 years, we've had a Democratic House of Representatives and they've given us, the working people, double-digit unemployment, a check fiasco and have spent time creating devices perpetuating themselves," said Starr, who favors limiting terms for congressmen.

"I believe nothing is sacred. I want to go after areas of fat in the government, such as all the needless middle management."

"I believe we need to take a look at defense. There are target areas we will have to look at, and it's going to be hard, but it is the real answer."

Starr said the first step in reducing the $4 trillion national debt is passing the balanced budget Constitutional amendment, although he said it is not the real answer.

What Starr feels is more important in lifting the economy is taking the tax burden off

Michael Starr

American people, eliminating the capital gains tax and restoring the investment tax credit for businesses.

He also said he is concerned with local issues, such as supporting Joint Use at Scott Air Force Base and improving conditions in East St. Louis, although he is only a four-year resident of Illinois.

"Lincoln wasn't from Illinois; Reagan wasn't from California. I with a desire and skills to serve the public, why should that be a debilitating factor?"

"Being a newcomer, I might have a different perspective which may be helpful. I think the voters in this area are prepared for a Republican who represents their views."

"I'm not discouraged at all. I think this election is winnable."

The new petition forms will be available in a few days, Presser said.

— From the Alton Telegraph

Perot starts from scratch on petitions

It's back to square one for volunteers circulating petitions to get Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot's name on the Illinois presidential ballot.

Volunteers had garnered more than 8,000 signatures in Madison County and more than 100,000 statewide, but the petitions are being recalled, Perot spokesmen said.

New petitions reflecting changes for four of Perot's 23 Illinois electors will be circulated. The petitions must be filed by Aug. 3 to put Perot on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Lee Presser, the Madison County coordinator for Citizens for Perot, said Perot backers would have little trouble obtaining more than the 25,000 signatures needed statewide to get the independent on the ballot.

"The attitude is that we'll hunker down and go out and do this again," he said, despite "considerable unhappiness" among volunteers.

"I'm asking every person who has signed a petition to seek out the person they signed up with, and sign again or sign with someone else," Presser said.

The new petitions are needed because one of the four electors is moving to Spain, Perot spokesman Ted Pincus said.

The electors listed on the nominating petitions would be the people designated to cast votes for Perot in the Electoral College after November's election.

Three other elector changes are being made also. "We need to make sure the electors vote for the man they are supposed to," Pincus said. "The other three are being changed for that reason."

Presser said he was told the petition forms also failed to list Perot's address as required by law.

It is better to stop and correct the matter rather than take a chance that the petitions would be thrown out and keep Perot off the Illinois ballot, Presser said.

"Illinois is a very important state," he said.

AIDS notification backers rap panel's opposition

Legislators who sponsored a law to notify patients of AIDS-infected health care providers have ripped a task force that urged the law get no money, for implementation.

On the motion of member Ellen Stimson of Edwardsville, the governor's task force recommended against funding, saying the law would cost several million dollars a year but would not prevent a single case of AIDS.

Rep. Karen Hasara, R-Springfield, a chief sponsor of the law, charged the task force "takes an uncaring, elitist attitude toward the possible risks to patients in becoming infected with this insidious, deadly virus."

Another sponsor, Sen. Pam Munizzi, D-Chicago, contended the task force had exaggerated the expense.

"We believe the legislative mandate would be met by simple letters from the Public Health Department to the patients of HIV-infected health care providers whose practice could have involved transmission of the AIDS virus."

"I can't believe Gov. Edgar is going to dismiss public concerns about becoming infected in a dentist's office or on the operating table just because a committee of the medical and dental establishment says he should sweep the problem under the rug," said Sen. Tom Dart, D-Chicago.

The law sets out procedures for the Illinois Department of Public Health to notify patients of AIDS-infected health care providers who have performed invasive procedures such as surgery or dental treatment.

The legislators said that, as of March 31, the state health department had recorded nine physicians and two dentists infected by the virus that causes AIDS. Their identities and locations have not been disclosed.

The task force, however, argued implementing the law could discourage health care professionals from getting tested.

Stimson also said there was a consensus on the task force that the law was a hysterical overreaction to a case involving a dentist in the central Illinois community of Nokomis who died of AIDS.

County Board acts to keep hands on purse strings

Officials looking to plug loopholes in the Madison County budget have taken the first step toward halting some unauthorized spending.

And an account under Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus' control is one that won't get away, County Board members said.

They were surprised Wednesday to hear that as many as 25 accounts with unknown amounts of money were being used without a system of "checks and balances."

They unanimously approved a motion calling for the board's Legislative Committee to find a way to keep department heads from spending money without County Board approval.

"All departments have to answer to somebody," said Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville. "It looks like we've got a loophole to plug."

The controversy started after Shimkus, a Collinsville Republican, drained a $35,000 tax automation fund to buy a machine to improve tax collections. Shimkus also got another $10,000 from the county to close the deal.

But several board members said the transactions were done without the full board's approval. Shimkus, who is challenging

"Change is always tough for people. In our zeal to improve the office, we may have bruised some egos. Those egos are still smarting over that."

— John Shimkus

Democratic U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin in the November election, said state law allowed him to spend money from the automation fund any way he saw fit. Board members, he added, are venting hurt pride because he bought the machine even though they initially told him he couldn't.

"Change is always tough for people. In our zeal to improve the office, we may have bruised some egos. Those egos are still smarting over that," Shimkus said.

He said he originally planned to lease the machine for more than $52,000 but that idea was shot down by the board. Members of several separate board committees were later swayed to put up $10,000 from the working cash fund to buy the machine because buying it cost about $10,000 less than leasing, in the long run.

Stille questioned the wisdom of the $10,000 loan, but a move to reconsider it failed. He vowed, however, to "keep pursuing" the lack of control over the smaller funds.

The tax automation fund is fed by $5 fees charged people who pay outstanding taxes on another person's property. The fund is one of many that are parts of the budgets of the treasurer, circuit clerk, recorder of deeds, county clerk and other offices.

"We need to find out just how many funds we're talking about and put that money back into the general fund," Stille said.

County Auditor Fred Bathon agreed that the money belonged in the $18 million general fund. The number of smaller funds is growing and keeps increasing the workload in his office, he said.

"I am personally opposed to these funds," Bathon said. "They fragment the general fund."

Board member Dick Worthen, D-Alton, said, "It's my contention that no elected official can spend money without the authorization of the County Board."

Durbin wants states to decide on accepting out-of-state waste

In response to the Supreme Court's ruling limiting states' options in dealing with out-of-state hazardous waste, U.S. Rep. Richard J. Durbin, D-Springfield, renewed his call for Congress to approve a bill he is co-sponsoring to allow states to decide for themselves whether to accept out-of-state waste.

"It is now up to Congress to act to protect local communities from the dangers associated with out-of-state waste," Durbin said.

The Supreme Court struck down an Alabama law that allowed states to charge a higher fee for the disposal of out-of-state hazardous waste than they charge for the disposal of in-state hazardous waste. In addition, the court overturned a Michigan law barring private landfill operators from accepting solid waste generated from outside the county where the landfill is located.

The court ruled that the two state laws are unconstitutional under the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Constitution.

The bill Durbin is co-sponsoring would allow states to reject out-of-state waste or to impose a fee on this waste. Revenues from these fees could be used only for recycling and waste management programs. Durbin co-sponsored this legislation in an attempt to help end the dumping of out-of-state municipal solid waste in communities like Taylorville and Litchfield where residents are concerned about the potential threats which can be caused by the waste such as groundwater contamination from leakage or air pollution from incineration.

"Rather than looking for local solutions, cities are simply shipping their trash out of town," Durbin said. "This out-of-sight, out-of-mind theory practiced by cities, places an undue burden on small, rural communities."

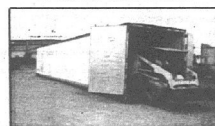

Durbin pointed out that the number of landfills in Illinois has decreased dramatically in the last several years. In 1987 there were 146 active landfills, in 1988 the number fell to 133, in 1989 it dropped to 126, in 1990 there were 117 and there are now 110.

The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that Illinois could run out of landfill space in eight to 10 years.

As many Illinois landfills close, those that remain open are being used at record levels to dispose of both in-state and out-of-state waste. In 1991, 85 percent of the trash generated in Illinois was disposed of in landfills, while only 11 percent was recycled, two percent was composted and 2 percent was incinerated. In addition, 30 of the 110 landfills in Illinois accept out-of-state waste.

OH MY ACHING CORNS!

A phrase so commonly used by those suffering needlessly from painful corns. Although trimming them affords temporary relief, within 1-2 months regrowth of the corn occurs along with the pain and discomfort. The recurrence is due to the underlying calcium deposit causing excessive pressure where the skin responds by building up that corn tissue. In almost all instances the corn can be permanently removed by an in office procedure requiring little or no time off work. There is no need to suffer any longer - consult the physicians and surgeons at the FOOT HEALTH CENTERS.

Rules cited for proper use of new 911

Authorities are urging people not to abuse Madison County's 911 emergency telephone service, which officially began at 12:01 a.m. Friday after several years of preparation.

People should call 911 only for legitimate emergencies and not just to see if it works, said Capt. Jack Fields, communications coordinator for the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

"The problem (with a non-emergency 911 call) is that it takes away the ability of someone to render service in an emergency to someone who needs it," Fields said.

Residents who want to make sure the 911 system has an accurate address listing for their telephone lines can schedule a 911 call, Fields said. People should call their police department's non-emergency number to see if a 911 test call can be placed. They will be told to call 911 then or call back later, he said.

When a 911 call is made, the address of the call and the police, fire and ambulance services that serve that area should appear on the dispatcher's video screen.

Telephone company and 911 officials have been working for weeks to make sure the information they match up with telephone numbers.

County and 911 officials celebrated the start of 911 service with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday afternoon in Edwardsville.

"This system is going forward," said 911 Coordinator David Whipple. "It works now, it works well and it'll only get better in the future."

Army will have a fund-raising booth at the July 4 carnival and will be holding a "Christmas in July" with its Christmas kettles and bell-ringers at local stores from July 1 to July 4.

A number of canned goods collections are going on, Hartley said, including one in conjunction with Domino's Pizza.

"People order a Domino's pizza and, if they give the driver canned goods, they can get a free can of soup," Hartley said.

"Summer is the toughest time to raise money, so we are hoping to be able to plan special activities like that," Hartley said.

Hartley said the Salvation Army wanted to thank the citizens of Granite City and the surrounding area for their generosity.

"The Salvation Army's founder, Gen. William Booth, was fond of saying, 'That and better will do.'"

"We trust that local citizens will continue to remember the Salvation Army's needs this summer."

"And I would hope that there never would be," Hagnauer said.

"I hope the citizens of Granite City realize how important this is."

The fire department manning table became a matter of contention in contract negotiations between the city and the firefighters union last year.

Firefighters maintained that greater manning would result in faster response and reduced safety.

Cruse said the city's options include contracting for a waste hauler to provide facilities and services; establishing a city composting site at one central location; providing only one drop-off facility; purchasing dumpsters with lids for residents to deposit their waste; or convincing the IEPA to waive the covered-container requirement or get the present bins permitted.

The yard waste drop-off program was initiated earlier this year to provide residents with a free alternative to hiring a waste hauler to collect grass clippings and leaves.

The program has been popular with residents, but abuses by citizens depositing items other than leaves and grass, combined with equipment failures and the warning notice, have clouded the program's future.

A caseworker with the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, who interviewed family members June 12 at the family police station, declined to comment on the matter. DCF's requested the DCI investigation, police said.

"It's a license collector," Garrett said. "What qualifications could you need for the job?"

Beane said that at least three or four other candidates not on the applicant list had also been interviewed for the job.

"No one is ever cut off an interview that I am aware of," Beane said. "It's done out of fairness to everyone."

Garrett said that, while other black applicants that he has referred for various jobs have been hired by the county, this is not the first time that he felt black applicants have been slighted in the county's hiring process.

"This is just the first time that I've brought it up," Garrett said. "Other times I've just tried to work behind the scenes."

"Because of some other instances where I thought black applicants were overlooked, I wanted to raise the awareness of the committee this time."

County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, D-Granite City, said he was unaware of discrimination within any board committee.

cut off by the utility company, and the resident tried to fire up a gas-powered generator, those on the scene said. The generator exploded, causing first- and second-degree burns to the man's face and igniting the building.

Six men — four firefighters and two ambulance personnel — were the first to arrive at the scene.

One firefighter manned a fire hydrant at 21st Street and Lee Avenue, and another laid a hose from the fire plug to the house. That left two firefighters to do the rest of the immediate work.

The more firefighters from the West Granite station arrived shortly thereafter and attacked the blaze from the alley.

And both say they would probably do it again, although the elder Knight regrets that his career left him with precious little time to spend with his four children as they grew up.

"It seems like we would work 40 hours a day," I make time eight years as a detective. "I didn't see my family sometimes. But I felt like somebody had to do the job."

"Doing police work kind of took away from being a father. I spend more time with my (six) grandchildren. I make time when I did (with my children) than I was a younger policeman."

Craig Knight agrees, but does not blame his father for it.

"He worked a lot of hours," Craig said. "He was always coming in late at night."

"But since I was nine or 10 I always knew what this department meant to him, and still does mean to him. And since I was a kid it's been more than a goal for me. It's more like a dream."

The younger Knight has, in fact, caught "the bug," too.

"I love this job," he said. "It's a front-row seat of life. Some of the guys say that will wear off in time, but I'd be satisfied to be a patrolman for 20 years," Craig said.

Life is different growing up as a cop's kid.

"When you're a cop's kid, you select different friends because your peers kind of look down upon you," Don said.

How Murphy Sports keeps scoring new customers year after year.

When the Murphy family of Skokie, Illinois opened its sporting goods store in 1981, they knew success would not come easy.

In fact, the retail business is one highly competitive game. You've got to keep attracting new customers, no matter how loyal your base.

Well, for years now Murphy Sports has been a hands-down winner. And one big reason is pictured right here—in the yellow pages.

"Without the yellow pages, we couldn't survive," Mike Murphy of Murphy Sports.

The actual ad is one of the biggest in the retail sporting goods section.

Why? Plain and simple—so customers can't miss it.

Research proves that larger display ads outperform smaller ads (see the chart).

Larger ads are more efficient too, with greater impact as well as more space at a proportionally lower cost.

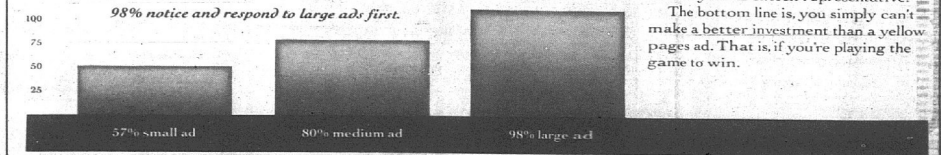

Murphy Sports uses the space to list its specialized products. Orders of these products make up a good chunk of Murphy Sports' business, and 75% of these come in by phone.

Yes, Murphy Sports has tried other advertising in the past. But according to Mike Murphy, "nothing was as successful, as tangible" as the yellow pages. And today, the yellow pages is the sole advertising medium used by this prosperous company.

Whether your business is retail, roofing, restaurants, or any other, the yellow pages can give you a major league advantage. And you can count on DonTech, publishers of the Ameritech PagesPlus directory, to help you determine what will work best for you. Just talk to your DonTech representative.

The bottom line is, you simply can't make a better investment than a yellow pages ad. That is, if you're playing the game to win.

Advertising is a proven sales tool that returns your original investment many times over. One of the most effective kinds of advertising you can choose is the yellow pages. The yellow pages is always working, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. It's distributed to every home, every business with a telephone. Who uses it? An impressive 90% of all adults. Keep in mind, too, that people rarely browse through the yellow pages. They turn to it when they're ready to buy; studies show that 87.7% of yellow pages users either bought or were going to buy. In short, a yellow pages ad means business.

Business booms when you do it by the book.

Triplets start fast at Danville

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Ralph Burnett has a new favorite team. The 1992 Triplets will remain the apple of his eye at least until they lose one game.

Post 113 remained unbeaten Friday with two wins to begin the Louisville Slugger Invitational in Danville. An 11-3 win over Danville Schlarman and a 5-3 triumph over Bradley Palomino left the Triplets on the verge of advancing to the final four today in the 16-team tournament.

The Triplets played Palatine on Saturday morning, but the big game Saturday was to be a 6 p.m. matchup against Champaign Post 24, which also finished Friday with a 2-0 record in Division C. The winners of each of four groups of four advance to today's final four.

The only thing we have set up for sure (Friday night) is that we'll have (Joe) Riser ready for Champaign," said Burnett. "To tell you the truth, we weren't all that impressed with Palatine, and that game might not mean all that much anyway. The best team I've seen up here so far is the one in blue."

That would be the Triplets, who took an 8-0 record into Saturday's action. Ryan Reeves got the win as he and Chris Hest combined on a two-hitter in a five-inning win over Danville Schlarman (the tournament has an eight-run rule after five innings). The Triplets scored their 11 runs on only four hits, including a Bobby Wilson triple. They were helped by two errors and seven walks.

Against Bradley, Drake Marshall improved to 3-0 on the summer with a complete game. He allowed nine hits, struck out five and walked three. Post 113 took a slim 2-1 lead into the bottom of the sixth before scoring three. Billy Van Buskirk and Picked were each hit by a pitch and Les Nunes had an RBI single. With runners at second and third with two outs, Marc Patton then delivered a two-run single to plate the eventual winning runs. Bradley got two in the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

"This is the best fundamental team I've ever had," said Burnett. "We just aren't making any mistakes. We got together late in the Bradley game when it was close and I told them they had all been here before. All these guys have played in a state championship game before and I guarantee you none of their guys had."

"We're just doing everything we need to win."

Reeves and Bill Herman had three hits each Wednesday in a 10-1 District 22 win in Marissa. Herman had a single, triple and home run, while Randy Scott picked up the win with help from Jeff Miller.

Maxvill going into WU Hall of Fame

Dal Maxvill of Granite City, now the general manager of the Cardinals, has been selected for induction into Washington University's newly-established Athletic Hall of Fame.

The inaugural induction ceremonies will be held at a luncheon during homecoming weekend Oct. 3.

Maxvill, a 1957 graduate of Granite City High School, batted .301 during his college career. He got an engineering degree from WU in 1962. He played 16 years of pro ball, including 12 with the Cardinals. He was the starting shortstop on World Series champions in 1964 and 1967, plus the 1968 National League champions.

Maxvill is one of 14 inductees. The inaugural class includes former Cardinal general manager Bing Devine and former Chicago Cardinal football coach Jim Conzelmann.

In addition to the luncheon ceremony to be held on campus, the inductees will be recognized at halftime of the Homecoming game Oct. 3 against Trinity University, which starts at 7 p.m. For information regarding tickets to the luncheon or game, call the WU department of athletics at 314-935-5185.

SIUE coach Margenthaler plans to stress academics

By Greg Shashack
Staff writer

With the importance of academics prominent as the overriding theme, SIUE presented Jack Margenthaler as its new basketball coach on Monday.

Margenthaler, who spent the past 15 seasons as the head coach at Western Illinois, takes over the Cougar program after Larry Graham resigned for personal reasons March 30.

When SIUE president Earl Lazerson and athletic director Gindy Jones introduced Margenthaler to the media, they spoke more of his players' success in the classroom than on the court.

"Jack Margenthaler has a remarkable record, in my opinion, in regard to the classroom performance of his players," Lazerson said.

Margenthaler, 48, was chosen from more than 100 candidates, including five finalists who all had experience coaching at the Division I level.

Margenthaler's contract with Western Illinois was not renewed after the Leathernecks posted a 10-18 record in 1991-92. His overall record at Western Illinois was 221-201 and he was twice voted the coach of the year in the Mid-Continent Conference.

"Clearly, his educational philosophy and his success as a coach was very attractive to us," Jones said. "He was at Western Illinois for 15 years. For a basketball coach to last that long in one place, he had to have done a lot of things right."

In the Cougars, Margenthaler takes over a program that has been rocked by controversy and turmoil. And despite dropping to the Division II level at which SIUE plays, Margenthaler is impressed with what's seen thus far.

"In my 18 years as a collegiate coach, I had opportunities to interview at several different institutions," Margenthaler said. "I've never

County Humane Society holds 1st 'Dogleg Classic'

The Madison County Humane Society recently held its first "Dogleg Classic." The proceeds from this golf tournament went to the Humane Society's building fund.

First-place trophies were won by Jerry Bielicko, Dave Clements, Dan Polovick and Dave Magherio. Second-place trophies went to Don Rea, Rich Rea, Ken Davis and Frank Laub. Third-place trophies went to Bill Santanello, Bob Santanello, Dick Santanello and Billy Santanello.

Trophies were presented by Jay Randolph Jr. of KASP-AM (1580) radio. Attendance prizes were awarded by Sandra Hughes of KMOV-TV (Channel 4).

The closest-to-the-pin prize was won by Don Rea of Granite City, while Randolph had the longest drive. Other closest-to-the-pin prizes were won by Rich Rea and Billy Santanello. No one won the 1992 Buick donated by Butch Peterson Buick-Geo of Salem, which would have been awarded for a hole-in-one.

Schrader paying visit to Tri-City Saturday

Winston Cup standout Ken Schrader will make his annual visit to Tri-City Speedway on June 27.

The occasion is the Carquest/AC-DeLoe Late Model Challenge. Schrader is the defending race winner and has not been beaten in his last three appearances at Tri-City. But due to surgery on a herniated disc this week, he will be unable to compete.

But the visit to Tri-City is one he won't cancel. "I enjoy coming back home to Tri-City and racing with the Saturday night boys, but this will give me the chance to visit with friends and fans," said Schrader.

The program of late models, modifieds and pro stocks will be highlighted by the 40-lap Carquest/AC-DeLoe Challenge on the half-mile track, with $2,000 going to the winner. Entries include Kevin Gundaker, Jim Durbin, Mark Voigt and Clark Oil series points leader Ed Bauman.

Skoal Bandit modifieds and Mello Yello pro stocks mid-se-

Hole-in-one contest being held at area courses offers big money

By Scott Fitzgerald
Correspondent

Ever had a hole-in-one? No? Me neither. Don't you hate people who've had more than one? It's like they're reaching across the table for that second helping when most of us haven't had our first. Well, if you're one of those lucky stiffs who regularly plunk the ball from tee to hole in one swing, you may soon be able to cash in on that talent in a big way.

The Concord Village Lions Club and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation have joined forces to hold the first Million Dollar Hole-in-One Shootout at four St. Louis area golf centers. It started Thursday and runs through June 29.

All entrants have a shot at winning $1 million dollars. Of course, actually winning it won't be a walk in the fairway. The event is open to all non-professionals 18 and older. Participants square off in 125-yard closest-to-the-pin competitions at four St. Louis area golf ranges, including the Tee-Up Golf Center, Illinois Route 111 and 135/70. Contest times are 3 to 9 p.m. on weeknights and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekends. Each site

What's: Million Dollar Hole-in-One Shootout.
When: Now through June 29.
Where: Four area courses, including the Tee-Up Golf Center, Illinois 111 at Interstate 55/70.
How to enter: Call any of the four courses (the number at the Tee-Up Golf Center is 271-4000) or 314-938-4055.

will keep a leader board with names of the top 15 players and their distance from the pin. Those 60 players then advance to the semifinals that afternoon, at a site yet to be determined. Later that day 30 players move on to the finals, which will be contested from 150 yards away. Anyone who fires an ace in the final round—more than one can win—will receive 240 monthly installments of $4,166.

In the first round, participants must pay $5 per ticket, which is good for six shots. There is no limit on the number of shots taken. Anyone who makes a hole-in-one in the preliminaries automatically qualifies for the finals. The other shootout sites are: Sunset Tee, 13550 W. Watson in Sunset Hills; Little Lake Golf Range, 2155 Creve Coeur Mill Road in Creve Coeur; and Austin's Golf Center, 760 Harvester

Road in St. Charles.

Proceeds from the event will be split between the Concord Village Lions Charities and the Gateway Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis.

Event chairman Don Flier, a member of the Lions who has been involved in the group's biggest annual event, the Budweiser World Championship Powerboat Races in Fenton, believes the shootout has great potential.

"I hope this eventually becomes our No. 1 event," Flier said. "They've held one in Phoenix for nine years and last year it raised a quarter of a million dollars."

Flier, who began working on the shootout last year, said it cost $15,000 to put on. He said owners of the various ranges, who are donating their sites, were all very interested.

"If it is as successful as we hope, we may be able to get a major sponsor next year and expand to other ranges," Flier said. In addition to the ranges, tickets also are available at the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in Clayton, all Golf Discount locations, Edwin Watts Golf Shops, Nevada Bob's Discount Golf and Gary Blase Golf Shop.

For more information, call 314-938-4055.

BAC sponsoring several summer baseball camps

Belleville Area College is sponsoring a series of week-long summer baseball camps for boys ages 8-17 at the Granite City, Belleville and Red Bud campuses.

The camp in Granite City will be June 22-26 from 9 a.m. to noon each day. Instruction will be given in pitching, catching, infield and outfield fundamentals and techniques, baserunning, hitting, bunting and physical conditioning.

The cost is $50 per participant, which includes a T-shirt. There is a limit of 75 participants per camp. Applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Pre-registration is strongly recommended.

For more information or applications, call the BAC athletic department at 235-2700 (extension 271) or toll-free (in Illinois) 1-800-BAC-5131 (extension 271).

The players will be divided into age groups, with the ratio of campers to coaches being 10 to 1. Campers are asked to wear baseball pants, athletic supporter and cup, baseball or gym shoes and a cap. They also must supply gloves and bats. Catchers must furnish their own equipment.

Coach

gone through a more extensive, more thorough interview process than was held here at SIUE. I feel very fortunate and honored to be chosen the head basketball coach at SIUE-Edwardsville.

Margenthaler said he has not yet met with any of his players. He said only three players from last season's team and the three new recruits signed by Graham are currently in the fold.

The status of Alton's Kevin Caldwell remains uncertain. Caldwell was kicked off the team by Graham late last season. Margenthaler said Caldwell's eligibility is a university matter and he would have to speak with SIUE vice-president James Buck and Jones regarding the 5-10 junior guard, a two-year starter.

"That's a situation that has to be determined first by the university and second by me," Margenthaler said.

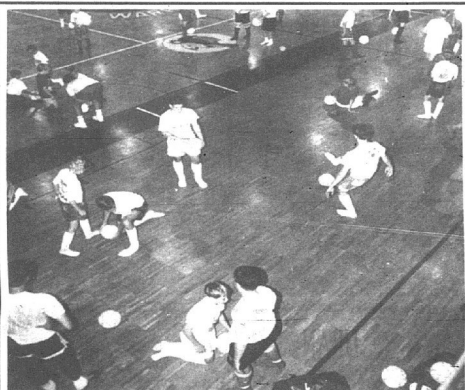

Jones said Caldwell had to meet certain guidelines to regain his eligibility, but she declined to elaborate, saying "that wouldn't be fair to Kevin."

One player the Cougars may be able to count on next season is Margenthaler's son, Ty Margenthaler, a 6-5 guard who was a first-team Class AA All-State player at Macomb High School, has two years of eligibility remaining after his two-season stint at Indian Hills Junior College in Iowa.

Jack Margenthaler, a native of Pinckneyville, said recruiting local talent will be a priority for his coaching staff.

"There's no doubt we would like to recruit in the local area," said Margenthaler, who has yet to name an assistant coach. "I think there's a wealth of talent in this area. It will be a vital part of our recruiting effort."

"We're going to convince the young men of our area that (SIUE) is the place to stay. They'll find out what a beautiful place we have and how sincere we are about their education."

Kickiest — Gene Baker's soccer camp attracted well over 100 students this week, most of whom were working out inside Memorial Gymnasium on Monday morning.

Radio dramas made listeners use imaginations

By Ian MacBryde
Correspondent

I was talking with a friend who happens to be an actor. "Sure," he said, "radio was great. We used to listen to it all the time when I was a kid." When both he and I were kids, radio was the only electronic medium, and radio drama meant just that—it plays performed on radio. There were pictures, of course, but they were the pictures which we formed in our minds as we listened to the adventures of "Johnny Dollar" (he was an insurance investigator as I recall), "Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons," "Gunsmoke" and all the others.

Radio had a regular schedule then, and each night was a different set of dramas—many of them of the cops-and-robbers variety with the same heroes every week. But there were also things like "Suspense" and "Inner Sanctum." In the cop shows you always knew that the hero would emerge more or less unscathed because he (it was always "he") would be back next week. But with the programs and changing characters, well, you were never quite sure.

There were comedies, too, of course, but for me, at that age, the action was better.

Radio required active participation on the part of the listener. Oh, you could knit or do other handwork, as my mother did. You could even read the paper, as my father did. But you had to think. Your mind had to come up with images to match the voices and the action which you were hearing. That's why, in some ways, it was so much better than television is today. TV did all the work for you. There's a real need to use your imagination because it's all right there in front of you.

But I had a picture of what all those radio characters looked like. Of course, it probably wasn't what your picture was, but somehow, we never talked about that.

One of the great thrills of my life was a visit to New York, a chance to go to see radio shows that were broadcast. Actually, I saw two of them. But it was a mixed thrill.

One was called "Strike It Rich," which was a program on which people appeared and told why they desperately needed money. Their story was voted more worthy than those of the other contestants they won money. Sounds horribly cruel as I think about it now, but it didn't seem so at the time.

The other program I saw was a drama and for some reason I don't recall which one, though I think it was "Johnny Dollar." I remember being terribly surprised to see that all the actors sat in a circle around a stage with a couple of microphones on stands and stayed out of each other's way while they delivered their lines. They didn't make any effort to act, of course, except with their voices, and I remember being terribly disappointed at the lack of action.

Radio has never quite the same appeal for me. All too often as I listened to the program I had this image of actors standing around microphones instead of running through the streets with guns in their hands. All of which proves nothing except that there are some things we shouldn't know. And it is better to use your imagination than not.

If anyone would like to write in about their radio memories, I'd love to read them. And someone will surely write to tell me that I have scrambled titles or characters or something in my memory. That's OK, too. I'd love to hear from you.

By the way, my favorite comedy as a very young boy was "Lum 'n Abner." But I still liked action better.

Talk shows can be dangerous places. Within a few minutes on 4 KMOX-AM (1130) call-in program with Bob Hardy on June 15 (the day after the Chicago celebration/riot), I must have heard five callers in a row suggest that looters be shot on sight. Not only did no one call in to defend looters, but no one called in to suggest that summary executions might create some legal problems. If talk shows are any indication, there are a lot of very angry people out there.

Colors in song titles, names

By Bill Beggs
Correspondent

MULTI-HUED TUNES. COLORFUL ARTISTS: Colors have been included in song titles and group names for decades, such as the tune "A White Sport Coat (And A Pink Carnation)" in the 1950s to a hot blue-eyed-soul band of the '60s, Simply Red.

1. Before the always-colorful Prince broke wide open with "Purple Rain" in 1984, he sang what No. 6 hit in the spring of 1983 about a hot car.

2. What No. 2 hit in the fall of 1972 was to be the biggest pop-chart success for The Moody Blues.

3. Who recorded "Under The Bridge," a current Top 40 hit.

4. Who hit No. 2 in 1957 with "A White Sport Coat (And A Pink Carnation)"?

5. What classic from 1970 was the only Top 40 hit for Blues Image?

6. Who held down the No. 1 slot for six weeks in the summer of 1968 with "The Purple People Eater"?

7. They didn't hit the pop chart with their manic electronic dance song (the ominous male vocal was slowed), but "Oh Yeah" was an unforgettable theme in the movie "Ferris Bueller's Day Off"—for whom?

8. What was the No. 1 hit from the writer of 1968 for The Lemon Pipers.

9. What Southern rock sextet made "No. 25 in 1974 with an unforgettable—some would say obnoxious—song named after their lead singer, "Jim Dandy"?

10. That 1986 ballad was the first No. 1 hit for Simply Red?

ANSWERS: 1. "Little Red Corvette." 2. "Nights in White Satin." 3. The Red Hot Chili Peppers. 4. Mafy Robbins. 5. "Ride Captain Ride." 6. Sheb Wooley. 7. Yellow. 8. The Tambourine. 9. Black Oak Arkansas (lead singer's real name: Jim "Dandy" Mangium). 10. "Holding Back The Years."
